Your family members don't heed your advice. There is nobody else to give it to. It could all go to waste. All those years of successes and celebrations and how you achieved them. Your good judgment that came from experience and your experience that came from bad judgment. All of it just straight down the plug hole.

This need no longer be the case. With a little motivation, you can give advice to people who are seeking it. Register for free as an experience provider on raadzaak.com. And give someone a piece of advice that they will want to listen to.

Come to raadzaak.com and have the wealth of your experience make someone flourish.

Thanks.
